Log Jam

by Alex Kochkin

There is a terrible log jam that is presently interfering with the larger transformational process going to its next stage. Developing a plan and solution has been passed to our own higher levels to address.

We are anticipating greater clarity as to the next step –hopefully before the end of September. Perhaps hints will be “leaked” sooner. I continue to remind and question certain matters at these levels to help keep things on track.

My concise view as of this writing is that (due to conditioning) most humans see no relevance of “higher anything” to their existence. The large minority are open to something relating to “discovering their spirituality”. Of that group, only a small portion are inclined toward spiritual evolution and ascension. And of that group only a small percentage are “on track”. And of this last group, there are variations, some significant, to each being’s ascension process –in other words there is no one fixed ascension modality.

Of that portion of humans who are open to and interested in “spirituality”, the vast majority are under the control of various religions, gurus, doctrines, beliefs, etc., etc. that have been deliberately cultivated by the dark to keep potentially awakened humans in check. In the recent era, this is readily traceable from the rise of the “theosophy” tendencies over a century ago, and the contemporary “new age movement” –both under the control and direction of the dark. This effectively sidelined what could have been an important renaissance of “civil spirituality” –and is directly relevant to why we find most humanity still so mired in 3d and the social-economic structures collapsing just as the planetary environment undergoes extreme changes.

Overall, there is at present insufficient energy or impetus from the lower levels (human 3d, etc.) to handle a new pattern for living, such as the simple 4-part formulation of Trust, Caring, and Service in context of higher spiritual commonality. Hence, there is a short schedule for our higher self levels to thoroughly examine all that is before them and in effect “pass judgment” on themselves/ourselves.

Humanity overall does have an “appointment with destiny” –one way or another. This is an ancient promise that will find its resolution soon.

The outcome may be a series of, if/then/else pathways. But I believe these will be short pathways whose branching outcomes will be readily traceable by those who are closest to the process.

As we wrote in this edition of GA News, perhaps a large portion of humanity will find itself having a near death experience (NDE) that leads to a more sudden awakening.
