

Global Awakening News

Commentary and Guidance for Enlightened Change During Rapidly Changing Times

Social Control and the USA Elections

November 2012

Link to this article: <http://www.pfcn.net/Bulletins/USAElections.pdf>

Falsehood versus Truth; Connection to False Creation versus Connection to True Creation.

This is what is at the essence of what is on the table for humanity today and the stakes are the very highest.

November 2012

Consider the following request for your own internal diagnostics: When you read about things like the USA elections, etc. do you begin to process what the commentaries, opinions, and all that are and wonder or worry what it means to your future as a human? Do you wonder if the economy will improve any? Why? If you still react to these things, try again until you can simply note such events with a neutral or indifferent point of view and not even need to pay attention to any post-election analyses by foolish mainstream or “alternative” news political commentators.

Weeks ago it was “expected” that Obama would be designated president, and at the very least, that would be the “perceptual meme” to cultivate.

While the vote will take a few weeks to be officially settled, the definiteness and speed at which the public and electoral votes were announced suggest to me a certain urgency to near term events. Over the weekend prior to election day, there seemed some possibility of a sudden switch in direction that would have given the position to Romney, but for now that seems not to be.

“Designated” is the operative term here, not “elected”. There is no such thing as “swing states” as presented to the fast-food-media-consuming public. This is well-defined and well-maintained bit of illusion and stagecraft. The USA election system is thoroughly rigged for ALL important positions –not necessarily rigged by any one candidate’s backroom operations, rather moreover by those who have the power to override personal notions of ambition and who truly designate what is to come next.

There is no reason to vote in any important USA election. Given the banality of local-level elections for urban or county positions, those also tend to be controlled by whatever the local corruption machinery desires. What remains are the “relatively untouched” small town and county elections since they are usually of little concern to anyone outside of the immediate locale.

To be clear, there is no reason to vote –not just because of what the candidates represent (that has always been the case) –that alone should be enough to trigger a “cognitive correction” to stay home, take a walk, go paint a picture or plant a garden. To participate indicates that you still do not understand the basics of the social control matrix and you might want to consider a remedial program to “catch-up”. Of course nowadays there is also no “honest” voting process either. And if you do not know that after the recent decade or so of election exposures, then you may need attend an additional remedial program. The “electoral college” has never been anything more than a “sanctifier” of what the dominant powers-that-be preferences are. Period.

Given all this, it is ludicrous for anyone to be bothered over “international observers” at the USA polling stations. The voting rolls themselves are already falsified, votes are falsified, and publicly announced outcomes are confirmed and decided by secret committees during the final days leading up to an election –and even then there are special arrangements of certain details to be made post-election. And no, there is no valid exit-polling cross checking either, so you do not need to bother.

Given the high volatility of these “end-times” there is no guarantee that the election results presented to the public is what will be the case for January 21, 2013. That said, those-who-decide (the powers that be) do prefer things to be fairly orderly, therefore it is likely that everything will proceed as usual. If there is a major “surprise” it will be because greater chaos serves the purposes of those who dominate the power structures –or because there are events occurring that are way beyond the purview of the powers-that-be.

Background

In my earlier “editorial” on the election written in March 2008, I did not appreciate how well the “designer candidate” process had developed. If McCain represented “generation-1”, then Obama represented “gen-2” or perhaps even a “gen-3” by the end of his first term. The “new generation” represents those who were “grown and cultured” from birth –which implies awareness an intention of this process with regard to potential parents or surrogates and “handlers”.

The extent of induced attention deficit and lack of mental capacity in most of the population, concealing simple but inconvenient “details” of a major public figure's background has been demonstrated to be of little difficulty. As long as such individuals effectively serve the purposes of those who maneuvered them into office, then this information would remain obfuscated to the "mass mind". To this day, the truth of events surrounding September 11, 2001 were exceedingly well "stage managed".

Various straw figures (such as McCain or Paul) are trotted out as a public spectacle to better take the measure of the mass social consciousness and to maneuver population sub-groups into a position that can be "played". Sometimes this takes the form of the paternalistic or militaristic jingoism, sometimes the form of the plastic "corporate polish", sometimes the appearance of "reform".

Following any major election, there are the usual "spin analyses" and the "spin on the spin", etc., until it has served its purpose, like so many meaningless stories designed to distract everyone yet again. There is nothing to be learned by paying any attention to these media circuses and machinations of empty-headed commentators. If the powers-that-be want candidate-x to win a national election over candidate-y, they will make sure that it happens. It is that simple.

The main thing is for each campaign to put up a convincing enough "show", which they did. The "spinmeisters" then tell the public various stories to further reinforce to the populace that the illusion of the election process is "real".

Campaign managers, like the candidates themselves, have role to play and a job to do. As long as they play their roles well, they are usually guaranteed a "good life" under the matrix world order, and may be called upon for follow-up roles in the future. So for those playing this game at those levels, it is usually always a "win-win" proposition, and so there are no "losers". When a candidate is directed to play the game of "throwing the election", they will of course do it, such as in 2000. Afterwards, the leading players involved in the charade were rewarded very well.

Difficult as it seems to be for most, it is important, at the least, to imagine the existence of multiple tiers of social controllers, some of whom are very influential and very wealthy, and some are "public figures". But even in these top tiers, most do not know the real agenda they are being used for. There are those who are far more aware of such things who are the hidden deciders of the global direction. Their agenda is far more esoteric than merely "money and guns".

One also needs to bear in mind that the social controllers are essentially demented and thus limited in their thought processes and options. But within the operating parameters they are most familiar with, they know how to do what they do and control substantial resources in the human realm. In terms of the mass populace, there has always been the requirement to minimize perturbations in the "home guard" and the main base areas of their operations. This pattern is obvious in examining the social and material support systems for all those military bases around the world, whatever national flag they may operate under. The USA for example was established to function as a massive base of operations, regardless of shifting allegiance and changes in its public figures.

The Election as National Psy-Op

Rigging votes involves much more than software backdoors to voting machines or registering dead people to vote, etc. It involves encouraging and discouraging various population types. It involves massive meme engineering by mainstream media. It involves turning half the USA into a massive “focus group” for TPTB to test various models upon.

For those reading this who may still be “amazed” that despite all the exposures of lies and corruptions via the World Wide Web (WWW) there isn’t greater awareness, stop and think about this. Just as it is with the mainstream media, only a small portion of the population has any capacity to “read between the lines”. The WWW may technically reach a large fraction of the total population, but of that fraction, a small fraction relies on “the web” for news and information content. Of that small fraction, it only a small fraction who read “alternative news” sources and commentaries. Of that remaining small fraction, only a rarified group actually seeks truthful alternative news, the rest gobble up the false “alternative news”. Today, there are only a few news sources reporting anything “news worthy” and barely a handful in the English language that present any meaningful information. Mostly, there are disparate individuals who have focused on specific areas of interest to offer some useful information and possible insights. Most of what is available is falsified news, false or misleading commentary leading to empty “insights” which only put one back into a “box” of controlled thought. And yes, much of this “content” is generated by writers paid to make up stories out of fragments of possibly “factual” (real) information.

The control elite use the elections to gauge the proclivities of the general populace by openly testing in mainstream society various “hot buttons” that could be used to manipulate an already conditioned populace. Statistical research would be used to map the likely value parameters, but then real actors would be needed to fulfill the roles needed. Enter the parade and charade of candidates.

The major candidates are generally not clued in to the true agendas of those who place them in office. All are manipulated themselves by various “carrots and sticks” and only near the end is the “nod” given by those in control to the one who is to make the cut. (After all they still have to make a convincing show of it all.)

If one were to stage an elaborate psychological operation (psy-op) marking the start of a new stage in the agenda of the powers-that-be for completing their global reorganization and control, and if one already knew how little remains of any “critical thought” capacity in the heavily mind-controlled USA population, then one would first make a total shambles of the election process with a circus of odious candidates as the recent decade or so has shown. We are now well past this stage.

There is very little likelihood of any type of organized civil uprisings in the USA and this has been explored by the powers-that-be from many angles already. The only concern has to do with civil unrest in response to the breakdown of government during a series of planetary or regional disasters, in the event of a catastrophically sudden military setback in their global agenda, and during the next stage of economic collapse. Also the powers-that-be know that a very large portion of the USA populace will welcome a martial-law situation during an extremely chaotic and dangerous situation.

What Do You Mean, “We”?!

National elections, major crises, and perceived global-scale threats provide the powers-that-be with appealing opportunities to project the “we” meme –as in “we” are all in this together. Depending on the type and scale of the catastrophe, this can become the easiest way for them to secure “cooperation by cooptation” of the greatest number while neutralizing malcontents –nationally or globally.

“Oneness” has become a handy term these days. It is widely and abstractly promoted as love, forgiveness, and embracing everyone and everything without discernment. This approach is consistent with “false creation” imprinting of everything under its domain with the false teaching of “freedom” that extols the individual (and collectively the human species), yet always in a context that omits connection to true Source and deliberately misdirecting spiritual energies.

This false “oneness” is a high-level “meta-meme” and a creature of the dark forces which is promoted under engineered social control tendencies including, “new age”, “new thought”, “integral culture”, global climate change, global terrorism, etc. False “oneness” is widely promoted by the “new age/new thought/integralist” tendencies that were originally created to serve as a mask for the-powers-that-be (TPTB) and as one way of ensuring a smooth social order under their dominion. (The 2008 Obama campaign benefited from this quite well.) These tendencies are very much like the proven mass market consumer product companies, churning out endless products and brands, all purporting to offer the secret to ultimate success and happiness. All pander to the banalities of the individual self in separation from true or original Source.

True Oneness with Original Creation is a high level resonance and attractor through which genuine healing and spiritual evolution can take place. It is also the avenue for true awakening. That is why we are here after all, to learn, and to help as whatever ways possible to undo the dark force influences –and hopefully not become spiritually exhausted and “consumed” by the process. A tall order to be sure!

False Oneness emphasizes self-centeredness in which fosters illusions of freedom and control—all in the context of maintaining separateness from True Source. This is applied at all levels of its domain all the way to the human realm. Built in to this meme there is a collective self-centeredness of the superiority of humanity and within this various levels of the family unit, race, gender, religions, all tools used to keep humanity misdirected and manipulated. The powers-that-be have patiently been working this in stages, always toward the goal of engineering a more compliant “inmate” population that would gladly manage its own imprisonment –such has been their long term social engineering strategy.

This was discussed further in the August 2008 article, “Meme Control & Millennia of Interference with Humanity”. Link:
<http://www.pfcn.net/Bulletins/Meme%20Control%20and%20Interference%20-%20Aug%202008.pdf>

When the situation arises, such “gentle” control methods give way to military force –either to achieve “law and order” or to invade territories outside of their respective national boundaries.

The sooner we let go of our illusions of human “civilization”, the sooner we can get on with creating a new way of being, one that is in connection to our true Source, the original Source of all Creation.

-Alex

P.S.

I have been involved in campaigns in one way or another since George McGovern and have paid close attention before that to Eisenhower, Lodge, Kennedy Nixon, and on... yes, my memory is longer than most people’s. I was well aware of the debates and analyses concerning whether George McGovern deserved the electoral support from the U.S. peace movements and progressive “left”. Later I was professionally involved with various local, state, and national campaigns. Also, for those wondering, I do not now, nor I have I ever been affiliated with any religion, guru, teachers, or related doctrines.

~~~

Link to this article:

<http://www.pfcn.net/Bulletins/USAElections.pdf>